OREGON STATE UNIVERSITY IS OUT THERE MAKING AN IMPACT.

We generate ideas no one else has. We are bold. Fearless. Determined. We answer the toughest questions, solve the most complex problems and inspire future generations to do the same.

Oregon State is an international public research university with more than 34,000 students, eleven colleges and a statewide presence, including OSU-Cascades in Bend, the Hatfield Marine Science Center in Newport, the Portland Center, and agricultural research and Extension centers across Oregon. We are a diverse, inclusive and welcoming community, drawing people from all fifty states and more than 100 countries. We embrace our responsibility to Oregon and the world, building a future that's smarter, healthier, more prosperous and more just. We see what could be and have worked relentlessly for over 150 years to make it so.

Students come to Oregon State brimming with potential and motivated to achieve their goals. They can choose from more than 200 academic programs and experiential learning opportunities through research, internships and study abroad. Guided by exceptional faculty, students make important discoveries, create innovative products and discover new ways to make a better world for all.

Beavers work hard. And it shows:

- Oregon State Ecampus is ranked No. 4 for Best Online Bachelor's Degrees in the nation by U.S. News & World Report. OSU has ranked in the top 10 for seven consecutive years.
- The Center for World University Rankings places Oregon State in the top 1% of all institutions of higher education worldwide.
- Oregon State earned $383.9 million in research funding in 2021. OSU consistently earns more research grants and contracts than all other public universities in the state combined.
- The OSU Extension Service provides information, services and expertise to 2.3 million Oregonians every year.
- Oregon State's groundbreaking TRACE project, one of the nation's most successful COVID-19 testing programs, has conducted more than 80,000 individual coronavirus tests and more than 4,000 wastewater tests in dozens of communities around Oregon.

We are proud to call Corvallis home and to be part of one of the smartest, safest, most sustainable and best all-around college towns in the U.S. Come visit and tour our historic campus. Walk with a friend along the tree-lined streets, grab a coffee or share a pizza on Monroe Avenue or dress in your favorite Beaver gear and follow the cheers to Reser Stadium, Gill Coliseum or Goss Stadium. Gain a new perspective from one of our notable faculty, visit a gallery or take in a theater or musical performance. Oregon State hosts a wide variety of events that are open to the public year-round.

Welcome to Beaver Nation. We think you'll love it here.

OREGON WINERIES

The boutique wineries in the Corvallis area enjoy the favorable wine-growing conditions in the Willamette Valley—it's no wonder we produce award-winning vintages. The rich history of winemaking dates back nearly sixty years in the region, a wine tasting destination within Oregon's world-renowned Willamette Valley AVA.

Hear from the winemakers themselves about the region's favorable grape-growing conditions and climate and how it creates the pinot noirs the area is known for, as well as chardonnays, pinot gris, rieslings and more.

With most of these wineries family owned, the winemakers place value in producing high-quality wines. They're also committed to sustainable practices that aim to keep the Willamette Valley a fertile winemaking region for decades to come.

So, settle in to a rustic, cozy tasting room, take in the views of the Oregon countryside, raise a glass and enjoy exploring Corvallis wine country.

Heart of Willamette Wineries Passport

Plan a scenic drive through the back roads of Benton County, see the natural beauty and diversity of the region, and sip some amazing wine with the Heart of Willamette Wineries Passport. The purchase of the passport allows for complimentary tastings at different wineries within thirty miles of Corvallis. Passports are available at participating wineries, at heartofwillamette.com and visitcorvallis.com.

Drinks Downtown

Sometimes it's nice to cozy up in town rather than drive through the region's scenery. Valcan Cellars Tasting Room is perfect for this. Located on Second Street downtown, the tasting room offers several wines to choose from and snacks from the Old World Deli next door.

For an in-town option in Philomath, try Compton Family Wines downtown.

MID-WILLAMETTE VALLEY SIP TRIP

In a region proud of its bittersweet apples, rich honey, fragrant hops and golden grains, there's sure to be a liquid creation your taste buds will love. Local craft beverage makers invite you into their tasting rooms and tap houses for the best libations the greater Corvallis area has to offer in the mid-Willamette Valley. Whether you're in the mood for a beer, cider or spirits—the Mid-Willamette Valley Sip Trip has a stop for you.

With a taste from one of the region's craft distilleries, you'll be starting the day strong. On the north side of town, stop by Spiritopia, which specializes in artisan liqueurs in flavors like ginger, peppermint and strawberry rhubarb. Head south of town to 4 Spirits Distillery, which offers whiskey, gin and vodka in addition to a menu of burgers, sandwiches and popular stuffed tater tots. Lastly, taste the flavored moonshine at Marcotte Distilling, west of Corvallis in the nearby town of Philomath, about ten miles from the base of Marys Peak.

Corvallis is overflowing with options for a refreshing beer to finish off a busy day in the valley. Take a walking tour of downtown's brewery scene, starting with Block 15

4 Spirits Distillery

Brewing, which serves up hop-forward ales, crisp lagers and barrel-aged specialty brews.

Continue the downtown stroll at Sky High Brewing, where you can sip a brew and enjoy a birds-eye view of the city from the rooftop terrace. Nestled in historic downtown is Treebeard's Taphouse, pouring pints in the old Hotel Corvallis. Finish your downtown stroll with some Belgium-inspired beer and fare at The Biere Library.

TASTE | SIP TRIP

On the east side of Corvallis is 2 Towns Ciderhouse, a craft cidery not to be missed. Stop by the tasting room (open to those 21+) to sample some of the twenty varieties of crisp, hard ciders made using local apples. You can also get a taste of the much-loved meadery, Nectar Creek, which was recently acquired by 2 Towns Ciderhouse.

Up for a drive? Stop by the Dirt Road Brewing tap room in the historic old bank building in Philomath to kick off the adventure. Then road trip to Long Timber Brewing Company, located in Monroe.

For another way to explore the region's beverage makers, consider a custom tour from one of two companies in the area—Best Oregon Tours and Oregon Traveling Tours.

Remember, before you get carried away tasting all the delicious drinks of the Willamette Valley, make plans for a sober ride home. Within Corvallis, take the free bus.

LOCAL FLAVORS

Corvallis is a farmer's paradise—surrounded by land with rich soils and a mild climate. Enjoy the bounty from the Willamette Valley's rich agriculture scene by way of farm-fresh foods and other goods. Take a tour or plan a farm stay, stop into one of the farmers markets and make a few stops along the Mid-Willamette Valley Food Trail.

Peoria Road Farm Market

Catch these different foods and products in their best season:

Flowers: April-July
 Strawberries: May-June
 Blueberries: June-July
 Apples and Cider: September-October
 Pumpkins: September-October
 Wine Harvest: September-October
 Hazelnuts: October-November

Mid-Willamette Valley Food Trail

Explore working farms in the region at your own pace with the self-guided Mid-Willamette Valley Food Trail highlighting the agricultural treasures found in Linn and Benton Counties. Prime time on the farms is typically between May and October.

Stop along farms at one of four routes—A Taster's Tour from Corvallis to Albany, the Makers and Innovators Tour from Philomath to Albany, the Flora and Fauna Tour from Alsea to Corvallis, and the Family Fun for All from Sweet Home to Philomath.

Enjoy an engaging and unique experience at one of the working farms along the trail. Check with individual stops for hours and details and remember to find something you like along the way to bring a taste of your journey back home with you.

Pick up a copy of this year's brochure at the Visit Corvallis visitor center or find it online at midvalleyfoodtrail.com.

Farms and u-pick experiences

Just south of Philomath, visit Gathering Together Farm, a certified organic vegetable and fruit farm since 1987. Eat at the restaurant, take a tour and learn about their CSA and VSA food boxes, which feed hundreds of families.

Closer to Corvallis, stop into

Davis Family Farms for hanging baskets and farm grown strawberries. In the fall, come for hayrides through the pumpkin fields and other harvest-time activities.

In Monroe, Lilliputopia is a tiny eco-farm promoting conservation and sustainability. From April through October find seasonal organic vegetables and handmade gifts—100% local.

Ready to harvest some blueberries? Several farms in the area have you covered. Located in Corvallis is Anderson Blues, a non-certified organic farm committed to providing fresh blueberries with no harmful chemicals. Pre-order their berries, or head to the farm, grab a bucket and pick them yourself!

Or, head south to Kiger Island, formed by a fork between the Willamette River and the Boonville Channel. Kiger Island Blues offers varieties of northern highbush blueberries. While you pick blueberries, ask the owner for tips on growing your own blueberries at home.

Farmers markets

Let the farm come to you at the area's seasonal markets. The Corvallis Farmers' Market is open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesdays and Saturdays from mid-April through November, on First Street between Jackson and Monroe Avenues downtown. Hear live music and shop for local foods from a changing lineup of twenty to thirty vendors on Wednesdays and fifty to seventy vendors each Saturday.

Head west to the Philomath Farmers' Market, run by Bountiful Backyard, a nonprofit helping people become more efficient and friendlier with the earth. They will have a unique CSA (community-supported agricultural system) market.

Just east of town at Midway Farms is North Albany Farmers Market. Vendors sell exclusively gluten-free products—even the baked goods!

Also east is the Peoria Road Farm Market, a permanent structure that comes alive seasonally, opening in late April, to offer farm-fresh fruits, vegetables and freshly picked flowers.

Farm stays

There's no better place to experience the simple pleasures of life on a working farm than here. Visit Leaping Lamb Farm in Alsea, 24 miles toward the coast from Corvallis along Highway 34, for a chance to try delicious fresh foods and breathe in fresh country air. The farm offers overnight stays in a two-bedroom farm cottage or a four-bedroom farmhouse. Guests are invited to pitch in with farm chores and feed the animals.

In the fall, choose and cut down your Christmas tree and bring it home after a stay in one of the Donovan's Place guest homes, located on a Christmas tree farm on the edge of Corvallis. This new family tradition will be loved by the whole family. There's also a ceramic pottery studio open year-round.

Book the vintage 1930s cabin at Lumos Wine Company west of Philomath. If your idea of a farm stay involves complimentary wine tastings. Take in the scenery and sip award-winning wine from organic grapes grown on the property.

Gardens and nurseries

Visit The Thyme Garden near Alsea for a lunchtime tour in the summer and see how the herbs you use in the kitchen are grown. Walk through the greenhouses and the aromatherapy conservatory before sitting down to a meal of seasonal dishes using some of the nursery's 700 varieties of herbs and plants.

In Philomath, stop by Shonnard's Nursery for flowers and gardening supplies or visit Greengable Garden, a florist and flower farm that grows daffodils, tulips, irises and sunflowers.

North of town, visit Garland Nursery, a fourth-generation family-owned shop with more than six acres of trees, shrubs and flowers—plus a great gift shop!

CULINARY CREATIONS

In Corvallis, the choices are endless when it comes to tantalizing food that will leave you feeling satisfied and quenched. Over the years the region has become rich with culinary creations, from internationally inspired bakeries and desserts to savory brewpubs and options for a classy night out for a special occasion. Corvallis is much more than a college town when it comes to dining options, and with so many farms and regional producers in the area, restaurants are blessed with fresh ingredients and local fixings. Good food is the heart of a good trip to the Corvallis area, and it's also a great way to fill up your itinerary for the day. Here's just one appetizing game plan for a day of great food in Benton County.

Breakfast

The Dizzy Hen in Philomath, about a ten minute drive down Highway 20 from downtown Corvallis, has food so tasty it'll make your head spin. Here you'll find a menu of breakfast, brunch and lunch options, with specific offerings changing by the week. For breakfast, go light with morning buns, scones or Danishes, or, dive in with a ham, caramelized onion and cheddar omelet. This spot also serves mimosas and bloody marys, and has a kids menu.

The Dizzy Hen

Eats and Treats Cafe

Lunch

Refuel after your morning activities with Eats & Treats Cafe, also in Philomath. This restaurant offers a dedicated gluten-free menu and “just darn good food” according to the eatery’s website. The owners, the McHenry family, first learned in 2007 that all the members of the family were gluten intolerant, inspiring them first to open Big River Grains, a gluten-free grain and flour company, followed by Eats & Treats Cafe in 2012. The eclectic menu offers a range of barbecue plates and meals, breads (yes, breads) and house-made sauces, as well as soups, salads, sandwiches, tacos, nachos and more. It's got all the options for a meal on the breakfast or lunch side of brunch.

Dinner

Finish the day with del Alma Restaurant & Bar in downtown Corvallis, where guests will find an elegant, yet inviting, dining room. Enjoy a menu of dishes inspired by Latin America, the Caribbean and Spain, with farm fresh ingredients from around the Northwest. Pick something from the long wine list and settle in for your meal. Try the bacon guacamole with hazelnuts or tequila prawns as an appetizer and main dishes including black bean and sweet potato chimichangas as well as albacore and

del Alma

DESSERT FIRST

From donuts to chocolates, to Chinese, French and Mexican pastries, it's hard to wait for dessert in Corvallis. Be sure to budget enough time and appetite on your next visit to try at least a few of these sweet culinary creations. Here are seven of the tastiest treat shops in town.

Benny's Donuts

Benny's Donuts believes in the whole donut experience. Expect hot, fresh and fancy varieties including Oregon marionberry & chocolate drizzle, Willamette strawberry, blue lotus masala chai or the cookie monster. Also look for limited availability seasonal favorites and pack together a box of a dozen choices to take on the go.

Burst's Chocolates

During the Great Depression, Rhea Burst decided, "What we could use in this town is a handmade chocolate shop." Over eighty years later, Burst's Chocolates resides in the same location on Madison Avenue. It's a can't-miss gourmet shop offering truffles, nut caramel clusters and ganaches. Each treat is enrobed in fine Guittard chocolate (that's the good stuff) and hand-garnished at the downtown shop.

Death by Donutz

Enter if you dare—or if you like fresh-baked-daily treats. Browse the day's creations for donut varieties such as Oreo, marionberry cream cheese, dirty dave (Oreos and peanut butter), mocha or caramel apple crumble. Arrive early to be sure you get some of the limited supply of donuts.

Le Pâtissier

A little nook in north Corvallis holds a French bakery with a name that translates to "the confectioner." Opened in 2005, Le Pâtissier is still serving up sweet and savory treats more than fifteen years later. Try the layered pastries, apple tarts, turnovers and mouth-watering chocolate croissants.

New Morning Bakery

Count on New Morning Bakery all day to enjoy artisan pastries, cakes, bars, cookies and more from their display case. Or, start your day sweet by trying the hazelnut pancakes with marionberry syrup—an Oregon-inspired breakfast treat.

Pilos Bakery

For freshly baked breads, spices, sweet pan dulce and custom baked cakes, head to Pilos. Try a concha, a sweet Mexican bread roll, or a dense and sweet tres leches cake.

Sweet Heart Dessert

Try traditional Chinese pastries at Sweet Heart Dessert. These creations use less sugar than typical American desserts, and include treats like matcha or strawberry crepe cakes, chocolate buns and pork floss pastries. Pair a pastry with Chinese bubble tea and enjoy the cute and bright décor at this stop just north of downtown Corvallis.

ART IS EVERYWHERE

Corvallis Arts Walk

Venture into downtown galleries, studios, and arts and crafts stores to see more of the bustling Corvallis art scene. Monthly art walks take place from 4 to 8 p.m. on the third Thursday of each month, when downtown businesses stay open late for art displays, demonstrations and music. Go to corvallisartswalk.com for more information or pick up a walking map from any downtown storefront member.

Corvallis Murals Scavenger Hunt

Be sure to keep an eye out for the vibrant art that continues to pop up on buildings around the city. There aren't just a few, but more than forty murals and counting. The new art is thanks in large part to the Corvallis Mural Project, an effort to promote new outdoor artwork for residents and visitors to enjoy.

Check out over half a dozen murals on display at "Art Alley," a narrow passageway between Second and Third Streets and just south of Madison Avenue.

Use a map available from the Visitor Center, 113 SW Third Street, Alley Suite 101, to solve clues from the mural scavenger hunt. Learn more at corvallismurals.com.

Downtown Alley Art Walk

Take a stroll on Madison Avenue downtown to experience the Alley Art Walk beginning on 8th Street. You'll find more than twenty-five sculptures, photographs, enamel-on-metal reproductions of poems and silkscreen prints.

The twelve-year Alley Art Project is a creation of the Howland Foundation Fund in The Arts Center Endowment, supported by Jim and Ruth Howland. The project's result is a series of art installations at the mouths of downtown alleys. Head to visitcorvallis.com to download a map to guide your downtown art journey.

The Arts Center

Originally built by the Episcopal Church of the Good Samaritan in 1889, the Carpenter Gothic style Arts Center is a work of art itself, and listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

After admiring the building, you'll not only see some more art—the center is home to exhibitions, some of which have been featured in The New York Times—but you can browse the well-stocked gift shop, ArtShop, where you'll find the best selection of arts and crafts in town. Take a bit of Corvallis home with you.

Go to theartscenter.net for the latest events, workshops and exhibit information.

Corvallis Museum

The new Corvallis Museum, a facility of the Benton County Historical Society, is situated on the former Copeland Lumber property, 411 SW Second Street, in downtown Corvallis. Exhibits in the Corvallis Museum take a playful approach to Benton County's history. The museum contains four galleries plus a few unexpected places for artifacts from the Horner Collection—the Society's impressive collection of more than 120,000 artifacts including all the relics of Oregon State University's Horner Museum, which closed in 1995.

Current exhibits include "Benton County," which takes a geographic approach to history, "A College Town," which delves into the history of OSU, and "Hats & Chairs," displaying whimsical combinations of, you guessed it, hats and chairs. Also on display throughout the museum are numerous photographs from the museum's collections and the famous glowing rocks from the Horner Collection. These inaugural exhibitions will begin to be changed out in mid-2022, so make sure to see them while they're around. More public programs will be offered in 2022, so sign up for the museum's email list for updates on new events scheduled.

The museum store features local art, books on regional history, and of course, a plethora of moose and beaver souvenirs. When planning your visit, make sure to leave time for shopping!

Corvallis Museum

Say hello to “Bruce the Moose,” once a fixture from the Horner Museum entrance, Bruce has been restored to welcome guests into the Corvallis Museum. The museum is currently open 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday and 12 to 4:30 p.m. Sundays. The Benton County Historical Society also continues to operate its original museum in Philomath, open 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday. Admission is free for members, so inquire at the front desk about how to join. Learn more at bentoncountymuseum.org.

Historic theatres

Brothers George and Samuel Whiteside are credited with building six theatres in Corvallis during the heyday of Vaudeville entertainment, including The Majestic Theatre in 1913 and The Whiteside Theatre in 1922. A century later, the Majestic and Whiteside are the only theatres built by the Whiteside brothers still standing, and each plays an important role in the lively entertainment scene in downtown Corvallis.

While originally built as a Vaudeville house 109 years ago, The Majestic Theatre was converted into a motion picture house called Varsity Theatre in the 1930s and was eventually closed in 1977. In 1985, the City of Corvallis purchased the theatre and a building next door and a citizen-led capital campaign raised over $1 million for renovations, with the theatre reopening in 1990 as a lively performing arts center. It was then run as a community nonprofit before becoming part of Corvallis Parks and Recreation in 2015. Today the Majestic hosts more than seventy productions and more than 150 performances annually. It's also a gathering place for nonprofits, businesses, civic groups and clubs. Check out a full calendar of upcoming performances at majestic.org.

Built for cinema, The Whiteside Theatre was also home to live stage productions. The theatre was the second largest movie palace in Oregon in 1922. It survived two fires and a multi-year closure in the early 2000s before The Whiteside Theatre Foundation was formed, bought the theatre and began restoration. Today the Whiteside shows classic movies on Wednesdays and hosts concerts and special events.

SHOP LOCAL

Take a stroll through downtown Corvallis to find clothing boutiques, independent bookstores and several unique jewelry shops—all of which will make you want to support local businesses. Impress your fellow travelers with this fun fact: Corvallis has one of the heaviest concentrations per capita of independent jewelers. Sample one of a handful of coffee shops downtown or try a sweet treat from New Morning Bakery.

The traditional downtown shopping district is located roughly between First and Fourth streets, and Jefferson and Monroe Avenues. The nearby Riverfront Park along First Street offers nine blocks of dining and entertainment to round out a busy day downtown.

Metered and free two- and three-hour parking can be found throughout downtown from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

For longer outings, consider using one of three free downtown parking lots, located:

*Between Monroe and Madison on Second Street
Between Madison and Jefferson on Second Street
Between Jefferson and Adams on Third Street*

GET OUTSIDE

If you're looking to get out in nature, you've come to the right place. Take advantage of Benton County's mild seasons with an outdoor adventure that suits your style, whether it's hiking to take in the views, biking through rugged forests, sightseeing and exploring the outdoors or diving into water sports like fishing, kayaking and swimming.

Hikes

Enjoy miles of multi-use trails great for hiking in Corvallis and Benton County, with some offering expansive views, scenic strolls through natural areas and parks, meadows of wildflowers and more. Before heading outside, the first stop for prospective hikers should be The Right Trail website at therighttrail.org. You'll find several hiking options for the mid-Willamette Valley, including options specifically for families or those with dogs, and an interactive map to explore the area. Still not sure which hikes might be right for you? Here are a few suggestions to get you started.

McDonald, Dunn, Peavy and Chip Ross Park

McDonald Forest, Dunn Forest and Peavy Arboretum provide a vast network of hiking trails through mature forests about fifteen minutes north of Corvallis. Take Dan's Trail, which meanders 2.5 miles through the forest to the top of Dimple Hill, where you'll find beautiful views of Corvallis and the Cascade mountains. The nearby Chip Ross Park also boasts lovely views over Corvallis.

Chip Ross Park

Fitton Green Natural Area

Bald Hill Natural Area

West Summit Trail

In the Bald Hill Natural Area west of Corvallis is the dog-friendly West Summit Trail, winding a half-mile through mixed canopy forest up to a breathtaking view of Corvallis and the Willamette Valley. Though the trail is less than a mile out and back, it has a moderately steep elevation gain of 235 feet, which is likely enough to get your heart pumping.

Alsea Falls Recreation Area

Make the forty-five minute drive southwest of town and experience the reward of both the twenty-foot Alsea Falls and the sixty-foot Green Peak Falls. A 2.8-mile out-and-back trail winds through old growth forests and passes by both waterfalls. Look for blooming rhododendrons, dogwoods and Oregon grapes along the way.

Alsea Falls Recreation Area

Mountain, town and gravel biking

If two wheels sounds better than two legs, most of the same trails are fit for a mountain bike, too. On The Right Trail website, search for trail options by use, and plan your bike outing. If you don't have a bike or left it at home, there's no need to worry. Bike rentals are available from Peak Sports downtown, which offers both mountain bikes and cruisers for adults and children. They even have tandem bikes for a playful duo looking to hit the streets together—or a lazy rider looking to get out of pedaling much. Looking to make a big day out of biking? Check out the hundreds of gravel miles in and around Benton County. The unpaved routes and loops for gravel biking are endless.

Stop by any bike shop or the Visitor Center to pick up a bike trail map, or go to the Visit Corvallis website or the AllTrails app for more cycling info.

Bald Hill Natural Area

Jump in

With summer temperatures in the 80s or low 90s, cooling off in the water is sometimes the only outdoor activity that sounds right.

With both the Willamette River and Marys River winding through town, there is a variety of swimming holes in the Corvallis area. Two good places to jump into Marys River are at the Marys River Natural Area off SW Brooklane Drive and at Pioneer Park, where there's a sandy beach. Also check out the nearby Avery Park, which is great for children and dogs, and has a rope swing into the river.

About 16 miles south of Corvallis is Irish Bend Park, a great place for a picnic, camping and a swimming hole to dip in the Willamette River.

For a less nature-y option, try the Osborn Aquatic Center in Corvallis, which boasts four swimming pools both indoors and outdoors and Otter Beach, an outdoor water park with a waterslide, toys and more. Admission is just $3-$6.

Osborn Aquatic Center

Willamette River Water Trail

Grab your paddle and personal flotation device, and get ready for an adventure. The Willamette River Water Trail is 187 miles of assembled properties that provide access to the river for campers and paddlers. The trail flows through forests, meadows, parks, farms and cities large and small.

Take an hour, afternoon or multiple days to explore the river on your preferred craft. Options include canoe, kayak, SUP, raft or drift boat. Several local outfitters and guides offer paddlesport sales, rentals and instructions before you head out.

There are about fifty campsites to choose from along the trail. River etiquette is to be courteous, respect private property and leave no trace, including human waste. Leave camp better than you found it to ensure the trail is around for generations to come.

Prepare for an excursion by heading to the key resource for aiding in trip planning and sharing river hazard information—willamettewatertrail.org. Here you can find information on the required Waterway Access Permits (WAP), itinerary inspiration and recommended packing lists—including a PFD and proper gear for river safety. The site offers downloadable maps to help identify campsites (first come, first serve), learn knowledge on the river features, find info about shuttling and provide history and information as you paddle the river.

CORVALLIS TO THE COAST

Experience the Oregon Coast Range like never before on the Corvallis-to-the-Sea (C2C) Trail. Whether on foot or bike, headed out for a day hike or taking a week off work for a thru-hike, you'll find what you're looking for here. The entire route, running from Corvallis to the Pacific Ocean is about sixty-two miles and entirely open to hikers, with some sections, but not yet all areas, open to bikers or horses on a seasonal basis. Experience deep forests, open vistas and a variety of wildlife and forestry.

The trail traverses through the Oregon Coast Range, forests and wildflowers, with more than a dozen access points on Forest Service land. Camping is currently available at the mid-point of the trail at the Big Elk Campground and at the Benton County Fairgrounds. Dispersed camping is also allowed on Forest Service lands along the trail.

Establishing the trail was a seventeen year undertaking led by the non-profit Corvallis-to-the-Sea (C2C) Trail Partnership. The work involved cooperation and support from private landowners, local governments and the U.S. Forest Service. Much of the path is on old gravel logging roads and other sections were established by dedicated volunteers. Find downloadable trail maps, permit information, current advisories and more at c2ctrail.org.

CLIMB ON

The Valley Rock Gym on Southwest Jefferson Avenue is a climbing gym centered around community, education and wellness, making it a warm and welcoming environment for newcomers and simultaneously a place where bouldering experts can test their mettle. With over 8,000 square feet of climbing terrain, a yoga room, kids climbing areas, a fitness studio and even a party room, this gym has your climbing needs covered.

The Valley Rock Gym offers classes for climbers of every skill level, including intro to bouldering, as well as nutritious salads, smoothies, snacks and more at Ants on a Log Cafe.

Members and guests alike can stop by many of the gym's events, including climb nights specifically for families, women, queer people and the BIPOC community.

Day use fees are $16 for youth and $20 for adults and grants access to the whole gym for a day. For longer stays, there are punch card and membership options available as well. Come see what the hype is about, and find a place in this climbing community.

MARYS PEAK TO PACIFIC SCENIC BYWAY

Marys Peak

One of Oregon's newest scenic and historic byways is the Marys Peak to Pacific Scenic Byway, which winds through the hills about seventy-two miles from Corvallis to Waldport. Meander up to the highest point in the Coast Range and then down to the breezy coastal town of Waldport. With so many options for pit stops on the drive, no two trips along the byway are quite the same. Here are some suggestions for fun stops on the way.

Benton County Courthouse, Corvallis

Start your trip at the oldest courthouse in Oregon still used for its original purpose. This Italianate-style building was built in 1889.

Softstar Shoes, Philomath

Get your foot in the door at this shoe shop and see how local leather artisans are producing shoes. Visit softstarshoes.com for a sneak peek.

Marys Peak

This peak is the highest mountain in the Coastal Range at 4,097 feet. Take in the panoramic views of the Willamette Valley and the Cascade Range mountains from the summit and see one of the rare alpine meadows in the Coastal Range.

The Thyme Garden

Stop by this hidden away family-owned farm. Herbs and seeds are harvested by hand. Find herbal salves, balms and soaps produced here.

John Boys Alsea Mercantile, Alsea

Stop by this quirky store on Alsea's Main Street to meet some of the town's characters and browse the impressive fishing tackle section.

Deb's Cafe, Alsea

Deb's is a great stop for a lunch of comfort food and pies at almost halfway down the byway to the coast, or you can use their online menu to order to-go to keep moving down the road.

Alsea Falls Recreation Area

Check out one of two picturesque waterfalls at this recreation area and have a picnic alongside the Alsea River.

Hayden Covered Bridge

Take a break from driving to stop for a photo op at this bright white covered bridge, still in use today.

Alsea Bay Historic Interpretive Center, Waldport

Stop in to the interpretive center for exhibits about the artistic bridges of Oregon, or catch a clamming or crabbing demonstration during the summer.

WHY MAKE CORVALLIS OR BENTON COUNTY A PLACE TO CALL HOME?

Corvallis is the hub of Benton County, an area with a great quality of life that many choose to call home. Nearly 60,000 call Corvallis home and more than 93,000 live in the greater Benton County area, according to 2021 population estimates. The county is home to a handful of other communities, including Adair Village, Alsea, Monroe, North Albany and Philomath.

Housing

Home values have been on the rise with big changes in the past year. The Corvallis median listing price is about $455,000 according to Realtor.com. The city is working to increase housing in the area. Overall in Benton County, the median listing price has risen over the past year to $462,000. Rents county-wide average $1,150.

Education

Benton County has some of the highest-performing schools in the state, with many local schools achieving high awards for academics, activities and athletics.

Linn-Benton Community College

linnbenton.edu

Linn-Benton Community College is a fully-accredited institution dedicated to quality education and a safe learning environment. It is a two-year public college that offers more than sixty transfer and career & technical programs. As the sixth-largest community college in Oregon, LBCC's 104-acre Albany campus is located just 10 miles east of Corvallis and provides modern science labs and classroom facilities. Check out the LBCC/OSU Degree Partnership Program, which provides dual enrollment services to students.

Oregon State University

oregonstate.edu

OSU is an integral part of the local community with an enrollment of approximately 25,000 students and more than 10,000 employees. OSU serves as Oregon's leading source of basic applied research in forestry, agriculture, fisheries, engineering, electronics and the sciences for the development of human, land, atmospheric and oceanic resources. OSU is considered one of the nation's leading research universities.

Weather

Enjoy colorful spring and fall, and pleasant summers with an average high of 80 degrees. Winters are mild, and most of the forty inches of annual rainfall come between November and May. Snow is rare on the valley floor, so it's a magical treat when it comes. Delight in the many seasonal changes that keep the city beautiful and allow for a wide variety of activities throughout the year.

Medical

The Oregon Health Authority has recognized The Corvallis Clinic for providing the highest level of patient-centered primary care in the state.

Founded in 1947, the clinic has more than 100 providers in twenty-seven specialties at ten locations. Physicians practice independently and make decisions based on what's best for their patients.

Samaritan Health Services, a network of hospitals and health care facilities in the mid-Willamette Valley and central Oregon coast, is based in Corvallis and ensures that top-quality health care is readily available. At Good Samaritan Regional Medical Center, state-of-the-art facilities specializing in heart surgery and cancer treatment have been added in the last few years.
